

Ethics & Boundaries Online Workshop: Ensuring Ethical Care to People with Dementia and Their Families

Friday, April 23, 2021
From 8:30am to 12:30pm

Education Credit: up to 4.0 hours of continuing education hours (CEHs) or 0.40 continuing education units (CEUs) will be available for this live internet activity.
Note: online platform attendance records will be used to verify participant attendance for issuing credit; hence, attendees should be on their own device.

Tracy A. Schroeffer, PhD, MSW, MA

Dr. Schroeffer is a professor at the University of Wisconsin-Madison Sandra Rosenbaum School of Social Work, whose practice and research focuses on improving the lives of older adults. One particular focus of her work is on older adults diagnosed with dementia and their families. She provides trainings to healthcare providers and informal and formal caregivers on how to deliver physical, psychosocial, spiritual and culturally sensitive care that is both respectful and seeks to ensure quality of life.

The workshop is free; however, advance registration is required by April 20, 2021.
Register at: Ethics & Boundaries