Presenters: Bonnie Nuttkinson, MS, Outreach Specialist and Molly Schroeder, CSW, Community Dementia Programs Manager from the Wisconsin Alzheimer’s Institute.

A dementia diagnosis can have many impacts on both the individual and family. Caregivers for the person living with dementia often rely on family members or others in their support network to help carry the caregiving duties. It is vital that individuals in these networks are united in their goals to provide a positive approach to caregiving. Learn how to manage different family dynamics and build a support network to provide the best quality of care for the person living with dementia.
