SCHOOL OF MEDICINE AND PUBLIC HEALTH

Who should attend?

All healthcare professionals who diagnose, treat and manage persons living with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias in diverse populations, including: primary care physicians, geriatricians, psychiatrists, neurologists, advanced practice nurses, nurses, psychologists, social workers, physician assistants, occupational and speech therapists, researchers, and case managers.

Alzheimer's Disease Update Conference

Statement of Need

Every 65 seconds someone in the United States develops Alzheimer's disease. It is estimated 6.5 million Americans age 65 and older are currently living with Alzheimer's dementia, a number estimated to reach 12.7 million Americans by 2050. Alzheimer's disease is the sixth-leading cause of death in the United States. As a result, there is a heightened need for researchers, healthcare professionals and policymakers to prevent and address the increasing prevalence of Alzheimer's disease and related dementia in an aging society. The goal of this conference is to improve the diagnostic and therapeutic capability of healthcare professionals who care for persons living with dementia and their caregivers.

Objectives

- Identify cutting-edge approaches to the diagnosis and treatment of Alzheimer's dementia and related disorders across diverse communities.
- Describe evidence-based, culturally tailored care management strategies for patients living with cognitive disorders.
- Identify effective strategies to support and engage caregivers of persons living with dementia.

Elements of Competence

This activity has been designed to change learner competence and focuses on the American Board of Medical Specialties areas of medical knowledge and patient care and procedural skills. This activity also focuses on the interprofessional competencies of roles/responsibilities and teams/teamwork.

Policy on Faculty and Sponsor Disclosure

It is the policy of the Wisconsin Medical Society that the faculty, authors, planners and other persons who may influence content of their continuing education (CE) activity disclose all relevant financial relationships with commercial interests in order for all CE staff to identify and resolve any potential conflicts of interest. Faculty must also disclose any planned discussion of unlabeled/unapproved uses of drugs or devices during their presentation(s).

Wisconsin Alzheimer's Institute

UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE AND PUBLIC HEALTH

The Wisconsin Alzheimer's Institute (WAI) is committed to health equity and aims to improve the quality of life of persons living with dementia and their families across the state through research and community engagement. Our purpose is to increase awareness of Alzheimer's disease and related disorders, to identify and disseminate strategies to reduce dementia risk, to convene stakeholders across the state, to improve access to quality dementia care services, and to develop and support culturally tailored, effective clinical and community-based models of care.

Registration and Event Fees

Event Fees and Refund Policy

Conference Fees

Conference fees are complimentary. Advance registration is required and will close when at capacity. There is a fee of $25.00 for attendees that would like AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)[™] or a certificate of attendance. The fee will be paid after the conference when requesting credits/certificate through the conference evaluation.

Cancellations/Refund Policy

There are no conference fees for the events. Due to event capacity limits, it is important to cancel your registration if you are unable to attend (your registration confirmation will contain a cancellation link). The fee for AMA PRA Category 1 Credit(s)[™] or a certificate of attendance is not refundable.

Registration

Advance registration is required for each of the events. Registration will close when at capacity. There are three total sessions: a pre-conference, the conference, and a network meeting. Each session has a separate registration link. Please register for each session you plan to attend. After you register, you will receive an email with details about how to login to each event and a cancellation link. Because space is limited, it is important to cancel your registration if you are unable to attend.
